Living well with Sickle Cell

The City Prescription is an online platform sharing the stories of those living and working with the lifelong health condition Sickle Cell disease. The City Prescription is dedicated to assisting individuals with Sickle Cell, enabling them to realise their full potential in and out of the workplace.

OUR MISSION

We aim to offer advice and encouragement to young people in education or work on how to best manage a long-term health condition

Share Real Life Experiences

Hear first-hand stories from people living and working with Sickle Cell and other long-term health conditions.

Offer Practical Advice & Guidance

Read up on top tips and advice on how to manage the transition out of education and into the workplace.

Raise Awareness of Sickle Cell

Advocating awareness of Sickle Cell and other long-term health conditions and promoting understanding.

FOUNDER

Banking & Finance Lawyer, Whitney Joseph, founded The City Prescription after spending time in a number of City's largest financial services and law firms and realising the important need for those living with Sickle Cell – and other long term health conditions – to be supported in their transition from education into the work place.
